Summer Reading

Summer reading is a well known term I don't think is unique to students with more time available when school is out. I can easily spend more time reading than other more laborious pursuits any time of year. I remember telling my first grandson when he was a second grader, someone who can read can learn anything. I read once that someone who can't read is no worse off that someone who doesn't.

But summer reading implies leisure; something pleasurable we choose to do when nothing is required of us. I enjoy reading police & detective novels. I like stories about lawyers too. There's a series about a Seattle lawyer I particularly enjoy because I grew up there. I think I've read everything John Grisham has ever written, not only his stories about attorneys.

I like history, both factual and fiction. I've read most of what James Michener wrote; great stories of historical fiction. There are many excellent works of faith based fiction written by Brock & Bodie Thoene, some of it centered on historical reality.

I enjoy good biographies about well known people. Would you like to know the truth about John D. Rockefeller? Read "Titan" by Ron Chernow. You may be surprised how different it is from the ignorant myths told about the man. I've read many books about Winston Churchill and President Harry S. Truman, the best being "Truman" by David McCullough. I've read that one more than once. "The Last Lion" by William Manchester is a three volume account of Churchill's life that will hold your interest for 1,200-1,800 pages, depending on whether you read it hard bound or paper back. Probably the most influential man of the 20th Century.

I once discovered a wealth of letters my father had written to my mother during WWII, when he was away at war. I was astounded by the artistry he displayed in what he wrote and how he wrote it. I had never imagined him writing with such artistic expression. Writing can express far beyond what is often evident in conversation or teaching. Read good writers and you are liable to be impacted more than you anticipated.

I expect to read some good books this summer. I'm enjoying a few right now. I encourage you to read God's book of love to you with fresh anticipation of what the Infinite One, the One who IS love continues to reveal to those who listen to Him. He wants us to receive and understand more of His loving destiny for us. Please don't read what He has given us as a text book. He hasn't created us to study Him, but to know Him. He wants us to know Him well enough to be absolutely confident in who He is, and who He is toward us; you & me, and us.

We're not studying for a test. There is no entrance exam to heaven. We have been invited to walk through life with the One who IS Life, learning how to live well with the One who created us for it.

Church BYOL Picnics and Outdoor Game Times

During the first Sunday of the month for August we will have a "bring your own lunch" (BYOL) Picnic. The fridge and kitchen will be available to store items during service if need be. Or feel free to go grab something and then come enjoy it outdoors with us and some fun group games.

PCF has a plethora of yard games for the summer and we want to enjoy this beautiful property with more outdoor time. So, after church on the first Sunday of each month and during our monthly potlucks, depending upon weather, we plan to have yard games available outside! We have Tumble Tetris, Jenga, volleyball, cornhole, Connect Four, and pickleball. Join us for some yard game fun!

There will be a potluck meal on Sunday August 17th after service. This month's theme is: BBQ sides. PCF will provide the plates, utensils, water and hamburgers, hot dogs and birthday cake! Bring a BBQ side and join us in celebrating PCF turning 49 on August 22nd! Looking forward to celebrating together!

Join us for a work party on Saturday August 9th from 9am to noon. Bring gloves and come help us keep things looking nice!
